

Journey Revisited is a professional group of musicians who are inspired by the music of Journey and bring "national act" experience to every stage. Journey Revisited gives its audience an astonishingly accurate tribute to the "Perry & Rolie" Journey era. The band will play all the top hits with no rare B-sides or fillers. Each song is recreated note for note and performed in the original keys without pre-recorded backing tracks. What Journey fans remember hearing on the radio or albums is what they will get from Journey Revisited.

Fronting the group is outstanding lead vocalist Frank House, along with the axe work of Val Popovic recreating Neal Schon, Dave Hawkes channeling Steve Smith on skins, Dave Sousa on bass, and Kevin Jachetta with the Gregg Rolie spot-on keys and voice, JOURNEY REVISITED features fantastic harmonies and the dynamic instrumentals that people fondly recall. JR delivers that organic live sound of Journey during the album-oriented rock era, and audiences always leave a concert ready to come to rock with the band again.
